

News from Tamarack

1990 is proving to be veteran Canadian folk group Tamarack's busiest year ever. The twelve year old traditional trio enjoying the success of their latest (and fifth) album "Shave the Bear." In support of the album they are on the road this year with tours planned for British Columbia in April, and Ontario in May; a busy folk festival season including their first appearance at Mariposa; the east coast in mid-summer and Manitoba and Saskatchewan in October.

The Cowboy Junkies cover version of Tamarack's ballad "Mining for Gold" has sold a million copies world-wide as part of the Junkies' "Trinity Session" album.

A CBC television special, "Tamarack on the Rideau," is being aired nation-wide. Check your television listings for times. Sue Richards
